

Enabling Teams for Success

Treasure Trail Simulation

While leading teams is a complex assignment for any manager, a leader can learn certain key traits and behaviors to exhibit quickly and effectively. A manager who consistently demonstrates integrity, commitment, and trustworthiness with their team can help them navigate complex challenges. Empathetic managers with these traits will be able to lead their teams to excellence.

This simulation sees participants play as team leaders on a quest to uncover treasure. But to get to this treasure, the team must cross rugged terrain, face tough choices, and stick to their plans to reach the final waypoint on time. The choices participants make in the simulation indicate their ability to exhibit leadership traits, while the rest of the course will help participants improve these traits.

Learning Outcomes

- Identify the key traits for being a successful leader
- Learn to become an effective leader
- Strengthen the ability to drive excellence within teams
- Apply your learning in a simulated environment

Business Outcomes

- Develop management talent needed for building more high-performing teams
- Enhance the performance of existing teams by honing their leaders
- Establish and retain an open culture within teams even while scaling up

Ideal for

- FTMs as part of their management training
- Managers who have to lead their teams in high-pressure situations
- ICs on track for team lead or management roles